amazing professor, sad she's leaving

Dr. Wieseler brought a lot of interesting topics to the table, from disability to social issues to end-of-life care. She asks us questions during discussions that makes us think and challenge our views. She's also good at acknowledging everyone's opinions, and is a very nice and understanding professor. Sometimes, her assignments are a little vague, but it's never in a way that makes the assignment more difficult. Overall a great professor!

Dr. Wieseler quickly became one of my favorite professors at Rice. To be able to so seamlessly weave the humanistic to the sciences is a difficult feat, but it is that very quality that sets Dr. Wieseler apart from other instructors. I loved learning under her guidance and I was struck by how she was able to create such a supportive classroom atmosphere each class. I am saddened to hear that she will be moving to teach at a different university from next semester- I am fully confident however that she will continue to touch the lives of students in her classes, as much as she was able to do for us. She truly is an amazing professor.

Dr. Wieseler really knows a lot about the topics we covered in class, as evidenced by the great selections of readings we had. She also understood that we are busy students and never inundated us with work. She had good questions for in-class discussion that really prompted good discussions. I do feel that Dr. Wieseler had strong opinions about many of the issues, which is fine, but conversations in which this was obvious really leaned towards opinions that matched her own. I think if she played Devil's advocate more, more interesting conversations would be fostered.

Dr. Wieseler is excellent! She created such an engaging classroom environment in which everyone felt comfortable contributing to discussions and expressing their opinions in class. She also did a good job of providing helpful feedback on assignments and crafting assignments that provided an opportunity to think deeply about the course material.

Dr. Wieseler is very knowledgeable about medical ethics, and often brings new perspectives that I would have never thought about. She is very accessible and gives great feedback on papers and presentations. She really got me thinking about topics I thought were marginal.

Awesome! As I said on the course evaluation, Dr. Wieseler's passion about the material and degree of dedication to our learning is something that I have experienced very rarely in other classes at Rice. She created an environment where I felt comfortable speaking as a normally shy student.

Dr. Wieseler was a great professor! She was always on time and ready to go. The things we talked about in class are very applicable to health care. The professor was very effective in getting us to gain different perspectives on a number of topics.

Dr. Wieseler opened my eyes to a lot of topics in the healthcare field that I had never considered. She did a great job facilitating discussions in class and made sure everyone's thoughts were heard. I always felt super comfortable participating in discussions and definitely learned a lot.

Dr. Wieseler was great at generating discussion and getting all people to participate. She also introduced us to new ideas but encouraged us to push back if we didn't agree with them, so it didn't feel like we were just learning her point of view. She has a really unique point of view from her job at McGovern medical school and this experience was directly beneficial to all of us premeds.

I found Dr. Wieseler to be extremely effective as an instructor. I was forced to learn and expand my horizons on a number of topics that will be vital to my future career as a healthcare practitioner that I certainly would not have readily known about on my own. Her enthusiasm, obvious passion for the course, and will in teaching us how to expand our own thoughts and behaviors regarding communication in a medical setting will surely set you up not only for professional growth but also your own personal/philosophical growth.
